2. After leaving the box office, the Organiser will not accept any complaints regarding the Pass, the amount paid, or the amount of change returned.

3. Entry to and exit from the Festival grounds are permitted only through the official entrances. The Organiser draws attention to the fact that accessing the area by any other route may also be dangerous in view of the characteristics of the site.

4. The Organiser may refuse entry if the person seeking entry does not submit to the required security screening, cannot properly identify themselves with the appropriate document, or has previously been expelled.

It is PROHIBITED to enter by motor vehicle into those areas of the Festival that are closed to vehicular traffic. Motor vehicles parked unlawfully, parked in a way that obstructs others, or entering without authorisation may be removed by the authorities, and their owners may be subject to misdemeanour proceedings. The Visitor is obliged to relocate their motor vehicle upon the Organiser's request. The Organiser may inspect any motor vehicle entering the site, which constitutes a condition of entry.

13. Events may be held even in bad weather; however, there may be cases where the authorities, citing an extraordinary situation, prohibit the holding of programmes during certain parts of the event. The Organiser cannot be held liable for such changes.

14. The Festival management shall be liable solely for intentional breaches attributable to it and for breaches of contract causing damage to human life, physical integrity, or health, and, beyond the rights to which the Visitor is entitled under applicable law, expressly excludes its liability in relation to all other losses or damage. The price of the Pass has been determined taking the foregoing exclusions into account.

ON THE FESTIVAL GROUNDS

A person removed from the Festival grounds on the basis of the foregoing for a reason attributable to them may not reclaim the price of the Pass.

Furthermore, the site cannot be made completely free of waste, and despite the Organiser's utmost care, waste capable of causing injury may still occur. The Organiser excludes liability for accidents arising from the foregoing as well as for accidents resulting from the natural characteristics of the site.

24. Everyone is required to take special care of natural assets. Littering is prohibited. Waste must be placed in the bins designated for that purpose.

25. Please report any health problems without delay to the medical service available at the Festival. The exact location of the medical service is shown on the map.

26. At the Festival, Visitors may make image and audio recordings for private purposes only; they may not sell such recordings, exploit them for consideration, or use them for commercial purposes even without consideration, and Visitors appearing in such recordings may not be identified by name without their consent. The Organiser accepts no liability in the event that third parties breach the foregoing.

27. At the Festival, image and audio recordings are made on behalf of the Organiser, which the Organiser may publish through online and offline channels, in the media, and on posters. By participating in the Festival, each participant consents thereto, and persons appearing in such recordings may assert no claims whatsoever against the Organiser.
